

Cynthia is a seasoned leader in government affairs, policy, and external relations, where she drives impactful policy initiatives, fostering collaboration, and advocacy. Prior to RDF, Cynthia served as Chief of Staff in the Arizona House of Representatives, where she played a vital role in policy development, legislative strategy, and community engagement. She later served as a Presidential Appointee and White House Liaison at the U.S. Department of Commerce, advising senior officials on strategic planning and leadership development. Her prior positions also include Director of Intergovernmental Affairs for the CHIPS for America program and Executive Director of the Advocacy Center at the U.S. Department of Commerce's International Trade Administration.